BIG BOOST FOR PREMIER

ADDITION OF $500.00 CASH TO CAPITAL OF PREMIER MOTOR CAR CO., ASSURES CONTINUED GROWTH OF THIS PHENOMENAL CONCERN.

The tremendous demand for Premier Cars made necessary an increase in the working capital of the company and in order that no delay might occur in the advancement and constant improvement of the "Premier Car", a $500.000 increase in capital has been provided, which will be used only as working capitalnot a penny to go into buildings, every bit of it for "Premier manufacture.

The Motor Age has the following to say: NEW MONEY FOR PREMIER.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 17.—At a meeting of the interests comprising the Premier Motor Mfg. Co., in Indianapolis last Saturday, negotiations were completed that have brought to this concern increased capital in the sum of $500,000, thus making available means for handling the increased business of the company, which commenced the manufacture of motor cars 10 years ago. With the introduction last year of the Premier little six the business of the company is said to have doubled, hence the demand for increased capital.

Letters to Mr. A. A. Russel in part are given here. Mr. A. A. Russell, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: You will have received before this letter arrives, a marked copy of the Indianapolis News giving the report of negotiations which were completed last week. With these arrangements in effect, it makes Premier one of the strongest concerns in the country considering its requirements.

This Company has a surplus of almost 500 per cent. Our business has grown to a point where we decided in the last few months to add to our working capital, since we sold in the last year more than twice as many cars as the year previous, and we felt that additional working capital was needed in order to operate safely and allow the Company to take advantage of any further natural increase.

These straws point the way to 1914 pre-eminence in the motor car world. The Premier 1914 model on our floor invites an inspection which will demonstrate fully all and more than has been said for Premier quality. Come and see. Come and

New York, Dec. 9.—Fourteen teams were tied with 681 miles three laps at eight o'clock this morning, the thirty-second hour of the six day bicycle race. The Corry-Walker team was one lap behind the leaders, while Kopsky and Keefe had covered only 681 miles flat. The previous record for the hour was 676 miles, one lap. Beloit, Dec. 9.—Students of Beloit College are greatly worried this afternoon over the disappearance of two members of the freshman class. They are Roy E. West of Glenwood, Minnesota, and Dean S. Spencer of Evanswille, Wisconsin. The young men left Sunday without saying where they were going and their continued absence today is causing much speculation. It is thought they rode the bumpers to Chicago. West is said to have wealthy parents, but that they have recently discontinued send-ing him money.

Only a year ago Francis Ouimet wasn't even god enough to be ranked with topnotchers at golf, but now he is proclaimed the best amateur in the country by the official ranking just issued. Though Ouimet lost in the national amateur tournament, won by Jerome Travers, he is placed ahead of that champion. This is because of his success against Varden and Pay in the antiqual even event. Vardon and Ray in the national open event.

EE A GOOD FELLOW.

The generous offer made by Father Henry Willmann of Trinity church, to act as Santa Claus for the unfortunate and neglected, makes it possible for the coming Christmas to be a happy one for the city. There are alenty of willing hearts and open pocketbooks ready to respond to the call of the needy, at Christmas time, but the most of us are ignorant of conditions

It is a satisfaction to know that the work of distribution under the direction of Father Willmann, will be intelligent and thorough. The toys which mean so little, and are so 500n forgotten, in the homes of plenty, are novelties in homes less fortunate. The greatest joy at Christmas time found in the blessedness of giving Not in the spirit of receiving as much agan, which is too often the case, but in the spirit of the Master, whose memory the day commemorates. Inspired by this spirit, every home in the city may be made to ring with while Janesville is more highly fa-vored than many communities, there are some homes in the city where the day will lack significance unless hupathy to the suffragettes who marched man hearts and hands express a to the White House yesterday to exhindly sympathy. Let us all be good fellows this year to some brother who needs a helping hand.

MUST HAVE THE MONEY.

The city of Stoughton enjoyed the luxury of a reassessment last year and paid some four hundred and fifty and paid some four hundred and any dollars for the privilege. The new valuation is made the basis for this year's assessment, and the "Stoughton Hub" claims that the real estate other troubles. would be well sold at ninety per cent of the taxable valuation.

The paper cites the case of a woman whose little home sold for eight hundred dollars, after being taxed for fourteen hundred. Similar experiences are duplicated in every city in the state, where a re-assessment has been ordered.

It is interesting to note that the authorities are just now busy in go-ing over the state with a fine tooth now if there was a bit of snow it would seem like the Christmas period inspection. The cause for this activity is not difficult to trace. The state needs the money and the tax-payers must produce.

The income tax is found to be inadequate, as it fails man we think of whose record seems to touch the farmer, and so a direct to touch the farmer, and so a direct to touch the farmer, and so a direct to argue his fitness for the undertaktax of eight million dollars is necestary to hit all classes

Some of the reform shouters, in the rural districts, may find time for a little sober thought. "La Follette and reform" has been the magic watch word and now the chickens are coming home to roost. We have been so infatuated with the dance, that we forgot all about the fiddler, who now bobs up for attention.

And, further, it should not be forgotten that for every dollar that is paid into the treasury only 65 cents comes back, as cents disappear through the process of administration.'
"This sound philosophy should be applied by every taxpayer to the rule of nonsense that Secretary of State Donald and others persist in that money collected by the tax-gatherer in state taxes, for schools, roads, etc., is returned to the people. Not only is it never returned to the people who pay it in taxes but Treasurer Johnson who is the state's pay-mas-ter, says that more than a third of it is consumed, on the way to the state treasury and back to 'the people,' in expenses of administration. In other words if a county pays $20,000 in school taxes, somewhere on the way around, and back to the county. $7,000 of it goes 'into the hole' to pay sal-aries and the running expenses of the operation. Accepting Mr. Johnson's figures as correct, if the counties did their own road building they would do it 35 per cent or 40 per cent cheap er than under the 'state aid' method The treasurer puts the taxpayers un der renewed obligations by this lucid statement. Progress Through Sanity.

The suffrage cause is making fair progress on its own merits. It grows because it is talked over in each of the millions of homes in the good old American way, and the hard-headed but fair-minded head of the household reaches the conclusion that if the old woman wants the ballot, b'gosh, she shall have it. Daniel Frohman Presents JAMES K. HACKETT in "THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

The Dramatic Masterpiece of Romance and Adventure. A Photoplay in Four Parts

THE PRISONER OF ZENDA, Authory Hope's masterpiece, teeming with exquisite excitement and absorbing adventure, is a famous novel; the stage production of the subject, with James K. Hackett infusing into the leading role (the double impersonation of the weak, but lovable King and the earnest, forceful man whom fate sent to guard his throne) all his vigorous art and virile characterization, is a famous play; but it remained for the Famous Players Film Company to combine the thrilling incidents of the novel and the dramatic episodes of the play in what is therefore the most comprehensive and realistic version of the subject, in motion pictures.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" was Daniel Frohman's greatest success, and James K. Hackett's greatest personal triumph. The play entertained tens of thousands, and the film production will continue to entertain an audience of millions. It will tour the world, and be within physical and financial reach ROMANCE blended with the thrill of danger and doubt; loyalty emphasized by surrounding treachery and intrigue; the impulse of daring and the ectasy of hazard; the tense struggle of souls in combat; the battle between desire and denial; reckless ambition and the misery of its climax; the power of good and the force of evil; the woe and war of hearts; the triumph of duty over vice, hate, and even love; and throughout all the conflict of emctions and events, the sympathetic influence of a woman's tenderness; and Fate—Fate and a woman's heart, a woman's heart and its hunger—these combine the thrilling, theme of "The Prisoner of Zenda." the tale of a man who was a king, and a king who was a man! of "The Prisoner of Zenna. BELOIT FIRM PLANS KEROSENE ENGINES

High Cost of Gasoline Causes Fair banks-Morse Company to Build New Type of Machines. [IV ASSOCIATED PROSS.]

Beloit, Dec. 9.—Announcement is made today by the Fairbanks-Morse Manufacturing Company that after January first the only gasoline engine made by the big plant will be of the very smallest type, using but a small quantity of fuel. All of the larger engines will be equipped to burn kerosene or even cheaper grades of oil. The company's action is due to the increase in cost of gasoline and the prospective lessening of the supply. The company produced 20,000 engines a year.

NEW YORK TO BLAME FOR SINS OF CHILD KEPT FROM STREETS

New York, Dec. 9.—Father Knickeroocker is wholly to blame for his delinquent children and the youngsters are not at fault for their sins, in the opinion of Ernest K. Coulter, tounder of the Big Brother movement in New York, and who had a great deal to do with the establishment of the Children's Court.

"It is the sins of the city against the children that stand out most startingly in the Children's Courts."
Coulter said. "The community robs the child in the congested district of everything a growing human being needs for health of mind and body—and then it would punish him with his the law of the grown-up world. Were there anything like a rational distribution of population, were the dwellers in the tenements not deprived of light and space, were the tenement children not desperately put to it for anything like normal play, there would be small work indeed, for children's courts, charitable and reformatory institutions.

"It is in indulging the God-given play instinct that the child, under proper supervision, best develops his physical, mental and moral side.
When we force him to dodge about the garbage cans for his game of tag and push him into dark and evil-smelling stairways and cellars for his hide-and-seek, how can the community complain when he does not develop into a good citizen?

"Arraigned in the Children's Court recently for the heinous crime of playing ball in the street a half clad little fellow was asked by the magistrate: 'What are the sireets for?'
The culprit, whose head barely reached the bench, thought thard and earnestly, his face white from starvation an dfoar. 'Automobiles, sir,' he finally faltered, and the magistrate straightway sent him home.

They would be wrong, quite wrong. In modern business money is only a medium of exchange, not the foundation of the exchange. The groundwork of business is not money, gold or silver or paper currency, but credit. And credit is only another name for confidence, and confidence is a syno-

James J. Hill, railroad builder and ploneer of the northwest, is as keen a judge of business conditions as any man in America. He said the other day that the outlook for business de pends more upon the courage of Amer ican business men than upon craps and banks.

If America's business men will reach out in confident gladness for the her itage of prosperity which is rightfully theirs America will see such an ex pansion of business, such growth in enterprise, such general diffusion of wealth, such advancement in the arts and sciences of civilization, as has nev er before been realized.

It all depends upon the American man's confidence in himself and his country. And in no less degree it depends upon the encouragement and stimulus given to the American man by the American woman, for behind every man striving to advance himself and his country stands a woman no less interested than he is in America's moral, mental and material prog-

BIG HEALTH EXHIBIT SHOWN AT EDGERTON

Campaign in Interest of Red Cross Seals Furthered by University Speakers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Dec. 9.—The Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and the extension division of the university have sent their big health exhibit to Edgerton to boost the Red Cross seal compaign and to arrays in these campaign and to arouse interestin measures to improve the health of in neasures to improve the health of the community.

Paul W. Black of the university extension division, under whose direction the exhibit is being constructed and put into use throughout the state, came with it, and not only acted as an explainer, but made such a local survey of the city as to give a local punch in his talks to the pupils of the grades and the high school students.

He reports conditions of tuberous

dents.

He reports conditions of tuberculosis in Edgerton are in need of improvement. More people die of tuberculosis in this city than from all the contagious diseases together. The death rate here is twice as large as it is in Wisconsin as a whole, and 30 per cent higher than the United States as a whole. The death rate in Wisconsin is 978, in the United States about 148, but in Edgerton it is about 200: While the death rate from tuberculosis in Wisconsin has decreased five and one-half times as fast as the total death rate, yet Edgerton shows no perceptible change.

what Edgerton needs is a more aroused attitude toward the greatest scourge of man, the great white plague. If conditions are normal here we can estimate that there are about twenty-five cases of tuberculosis in this city.

this city.

The deaths from this disease each The deaths from this disease each year cause a loss of more than $10.000. If there are twenty-five living cases it may be conservatively ostimated that this is a loss of $38.000 each year from sickness. This does not cover the loss to the wage-earner or the employer for loss of time and inefficient work.

or the employer for loss of time and inefficient work.

With one person in every hundred in this city with this contagious disease it stands to reason that the disease will spread unless some measures are taken to prevent it. The Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association is now trying to help you conserve your sons and daughters, your labor force, your family unity, and it will help you, when you help it by boosting the sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals.

"SWEET ARE THE USES."
N ACCOUNT of financial losses and a much reduced income one of the families in our neighborhood decided last January to cut down its large purchase of magazines to two of the leading monthlies.

its large purchase of magazines to two of the leading monthlies.

As they are very fond of reading I supposed they would find this a keen deprivation, but my neighbor tells me that this cloud has so big a silver lining that she is not sure that it is a cloud at all. "When we had a dozen magazines," she said, "we used to skim them over. Now we read our two magazines carefully. Instead of throwing them aside after we have read the stories we read the essays and serious articles too. Then it has driven us to make more use of our fine public library, and the other day we discovered we hadn't read half the books on our own shelves. So now I'm absorbed in Les Miserables and Jack is reading one of Thackeray's that he hadn't happened to read,—both books right off our own book-shelves. So you see, by driving us to make better use of our resources our forced economy has been rather a good thing after all."

How many times this happens! That is, how many times some unwelcome necessity "by driving us to make better use of our resources," teaches us how much larger these resources were than we realized.

Another friend of mine who suffered a sudden remake better use of our resources, teaches us how much larger these resources were than we realized.

Another friend of mine who suffered a sudden reduction of income had to give up buying the new clothes she had planned last spring. But when she came to look over the wardrobe which she had in stock she was surprised to lind how many things she had and how much a little taste and money would do with them. "There were two or three thin drosses that just had some little thing the matter with them." she told me afterward. "If I had had as much money as usual I would have thought I couldn't do anything with them, As it was I fixed them up and everybody liked them. Then instead of buying new grey suede shoes I dyed a soiled white pair. I did a lot of things like that and I felt that I had almost as much as usual. I certainly didn't realize the possibilities of what I already had until I was driven into really using them."

Again, it is not alone in material things that we must be driven into using our full resources. I remember a time in my life when I was peculiarly alone, when I had no one to whom I could turn, no one to whom I could shift my responsibilities if they became too heavy. And just because I had no one to lean on I leaned upon mysolf and developed more character and self-reliance than I ever would have under happier circumstances.

Half the time we do not even scratch the surface of our resources. It takes necessity to drive us in upon them and teach us the full possibilities in our lease of the possibilities in our possibilities in the possibilities in the possibilities in the possibilities in the surface of our resources.

Simple gifts whose making lie within the power of the deft-fingered women need not be expensive, time or energy taking.

'The daintiest of work boxes can be made of stiff cardboard covered with cretonne. The directions for making the box will be omitted, for one can be purchased really cheaper than one be purchased really cheaper than one can make them. They are to be had.

They gift that is made by the giver of three-inch ribbon seven inches of three-inch ribbon seven inches long, hem a little over half an inch wide across the end of each strip and work an eyelet near the end of each hem. Fold the strips length wise and overhand the edges together, leaving an opening an inch in depth at the hemmed ends. String the bags together with baby ribbon passed through the eyelets, leaving the ribbon long enough to serve as a hanger and finish with pretty, full bows.

through the eyelets, leaving the ribbon long enough to serve as a hanger and finish with pretty, full bows.

Every room is the better for a catch-all bag. They can be made pretty yet be capacious. Take three-quarters of a yard of some soft material that is 27 inches in width (for the pieces must be square), and an embroidery hoop of medium size. Cut and turn edges over the hoop and sew with a running stitch that can be drawn up. Adjust them evenly over the hoop, then catch the selvage edges to the casing so formed midway of their length, so forming a perfect bag; finish with a ribbon bow and langers.

A pretty-pin cushion is always useful. The foundation can be purchased for here again you can purchase easier and more economical than you can make. Cover with satin or cretonne; cretonne wears the better. A frill, covered with lace finish, the edges. This will admit of many individual touches, and can be finished as the maker fancies.

For a dainty girl or woman friend a nightdress case will prove a most acceptable gift, keeping the fresh nightdresses smooth and imparting to them the dainty, elusyle perturne that bespeaks relinement. Any pretty silk or cotton, or even the simpler silko inc can be used for its making. The piece should be three-quarters of a yard square and may be of any preferred color.

Line with thin white India silk and between the silk and the outside use a thin sheet of wadding sprinkled lightly with satchet powder. Finish all the edges with feather-stitching, then turn one end up to a depth of nine and a half inches and overhand the ends together to form a pocket. Fold the remaining end over the lap. This will hold two nightdresses and is especially convenient when traveling, as it can be stored easily in either suit-case or trunk.

This is honest advice for you who are run down and sick—don't dope with alcoholic "tonics." We're backing this advice with our personal guarantee of satisfaction to you, or your money back.

There are a lot of so-called "tonics" on the market that do not depend for their short-lived popularity on any real merit they possess, but upon the fact that the alcohol in most of them and the dangerous or habit-forming drugs in some of them give a few moments' exhilaration and liveliness after a dose is taken. After a while, even this effect ceases to take place, and the unfortunate patient, worse off than before, turns for relief to something else.

TESTING NECESSARY TO PROFIT IN DAIRY

FARMER SHOULD KNOW QUAN-TITY OF MILK AND BUTTER FAT COW PRODUCES.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

Allen E. West Writes Second Paper of Series on Farm Economics-The Cost of Feeding. (Allen B. West.)

Circular No. 134 of the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station opens with the following series of questions:

How much is this cow worth? And that one?

that one?

How much mil and butter fat does she produce per year?

What profit will she return each year? What is the cost of her feed for year?

What is the cost of her feed for one year?
Of the labor?
What are the other expenses and depreciation?
What is the value per year of the skim milk? Of the manure?
Will the skim milk, calf and manure pay all expenses except feed?
These are questions of vital importance to any dairyman, and unless he can answer them with some degree of certainty it would seem that he is conducting his business on a haphazard sort of basis.
The undersigned would lie to hear from Rock county dairymen who are able to answer these questions with reference to their own herds. He would also like to hame the dairymen who make no tests tell how they determine that they are getting the best results from their herds for the labor expended.
Now the key to all the above questions the second of the labor expended.

Now the key to all the above questions is the second:

This determines in a large measure how much the cow is worth, and it is also a large factor in the profit slie returns any unit.

Which will be feed as he would do if feed as he would do if feed were to keep them in good condition though the winter? Which will be feed enough to keep them in good condition t police force is visiting his father, J. I. Bullis.

Mrs. Fowler, sister of Mrs. D. D. Brown, who has been ill for months, died last night.

To hold up on feed in the case of cows like the latter would be as wise as a farmer who, when seed corn is light uses only half the proper amount of seed for his forty acre field, har vesting only half the crop he should get from his acreage.

If cows are worth keeping they are worth feeding to the full capacity for milk production.

As to the labor, that in caring for a cow of high production is but little greater than that required for a cow of less production, as feeding, watering, cleaning stables and caring for the individuals is practically the same regardless of their production. As a rule cows giving less milk are slower milkers, so that more time is required per pound of milk obtained from the poorer cows. The slight increase of labor comes from the increase of milk, for in the nature of things more labor is required to care for $,000 pounds of milk than for 2,000. This is labor which returns a good profit however. It is a self-evident fact that the cow producting 8,000 pounds of milk will have more skim milk to her credit than one producing 2,000 pounds, but it is perhaps not so well known that such cows not only produce more manure; but manure of a better quality, owing to the fact that they are fed more concentrates. This has been estimated to vary from $13.50 from a cow producing 2,000 pounds to $20.00 from a cow producing 10,000 pounds of milk. That the calves from cows of high producing capacity are of more value than others requires no argument.

The answer to the last question, "Does the skim milk, call, and manure pay all expenses except feed," depends also on the reply to the second question as to how much milk and butter fat are produced.

The answer has been carefully worked out in a series of experiments covering a number of years, and the following conclusions have been reached:

worked out in a series of experiments covering a number of years, and the following conclusions have been reached:

"In the case of cows producing less than 9,000 pounds of milk during their lactation period, the skim milk calf and manure do not pay for the labor bousing service fee and dethan 9,000 pounds of milk during their lactation period, the skim milk calf and manure do not pay for the labor, housing, service fee and depreciation on cows and utensils, while with cows producing more than this amount the returns are so much greater that there is a rapid rise in profit as the production increases.

A study of tables given in bulletin from which the questions given above are quoted shows that this item varies from a loss of $5.40 from a cowproducing 2,000 pounds of milk, to almost an even balance from a cowproducing 9,750 pounds, then an increase from a cowproducing 10,000 pounds of milk with $6.53 to her credit from skimpnille, manure, etc., to a gain $25.98, from a cowproducing $15.000 pounds of milk. This is certainly an item of profit worth considering and worth working for.

How much milk and butter fat does each individual cow of the herd in your barn produce? Here is a problem for the Rock county farmer for these winter days. If she does not bring you $16 profit per year she isn't worth your time. It is too valuable to spend in caring for her.

The scales and the Babcock tester will answer this question for you.

For the dairyman who wishes to investigate further along the line suggested by the above the writer would recommend a, study of the following bulletins, which he will supply free of cost to anyone applying for them either personally or by until:

schools have opened relations with each other in athletic and forensic events. This formal opening places Janesville among the other large high schools in the state who put forth every year strong athletic teams and debating trios. The Madison management at once accepted to a basketball game to be played at the local gym this winter. Both these schools will likely have on the floor the two strongests fives in the southern section of the state.

The game will be 1/61ayed on the local floor February the 13th. A delate on the same night between the Madison affirmative and Janesville negative will take place at the Capitol City. Madison joined the Beloit College league this winter, as did Freeport, whom the locals have a basketball contest scheduled with on January the 16th, this game to be played on the local floor also.

Janesville's admirable record in athletic events last season, and especially in basketball, where they ranked superior throughout Wisconsin, have placed them high up in the ranks swith other top noten schools. The smaller schools will no longer be catered to, as in the past, as long as the locals have a fighting chance to gain honors for the school, is the opinion of Coach Curtis. It is doubtful if Evansville will have a basketball five this winter, and in case they do not, another strong five will be placed on the local's schedule in their place.
